Description:

Detailed map of Mississippi, showing towns, townships, roads, railroads, train stations, rivers, lakes, etc.

Bankston, a ghost town and former manufacturing powerhouse for the Confederate Army, before its textile mills were burned down, appears in Choctaw County. Scranton, the present-day site of downtown Pascagoula, is shown along the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad. In Warren County, "Cut off 1867" denotes when the Mississippi made a shortcut, cutting the land in Davis Bend (named for its owner, Confederate President Jefferson Davis) into Davis Island.
