

Barry Lawrence Ruderman Antique Maps Inc.

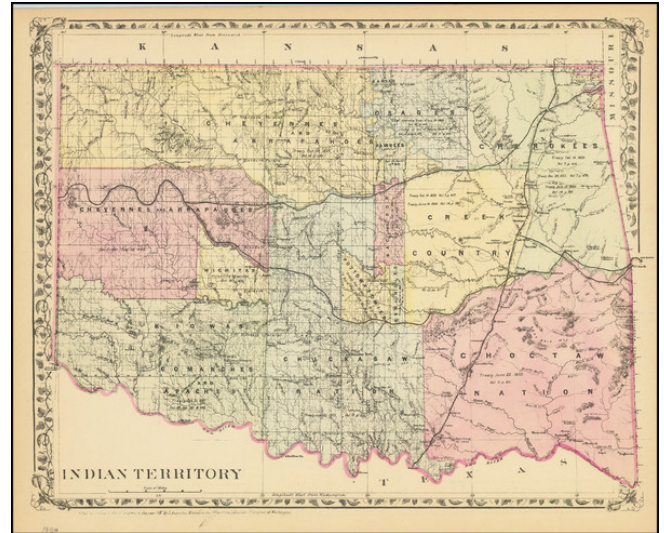

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

[Indian Territory [with Colorado on verso]]

Stock#: 90894
Map Maker: Mitchell Jr.
Date: 1880
Place: Philadelphia
Color: Hand Colored
Condition: VG+
Size: 14 x 11 inches
Price: SOLD

Description:

Highly detailed map of Colorado [and Indian Territory on the back side], published by Samuel Augustus Mitchell Jr.

Indian Territory

Mitchell's map of Indian Territory offers a detailed and accurate depiction of the region during a crucial time in its history. Indian Territory, which is now the state of Oklahoma, was a semi-autonomous region established by the United States government in the 19th century for the settlement of Native American tribes.

During the 1870s and early 1880s, Indian Territory was a rapidly changing region. In 1871, the United States government signed a treaty with the Five Civilized Tribes, which allowed them to remain in Indian Territory and to retain their semi-autonomous status. However, the government also continued to negotiate with other Native American tribes, and by the late 1870s, Indian Territory was home to a diverse population of Native American, African American, and European American settlers.

The map locates town and other settlements in the territory, as well as the location of the various Native American reservations. as well as the geography and topography of the region, including rivers, mountains, and other geographical features, tge boundaries of the various Native American reservations (with data on various treaties), as well as the location of the major military forts and other government installations. The location of the various transportation routes are also shown.

Barry Lawrence Ruderman Antique Maps Inc.

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

[Indian Territory [with Colorado on verso]

Colorado

In the 1870s and 1880s, Colorado was a rapidly changing and growing state. One of the key events in Colorado's history during this time was the mining boom in the southwestern part of the state. In the 1870s, a series of gold and silver strikes in the San Juan Mountains sparked a rush of miners and prospectors to the region. By the 1880s, the southwestern part of the state was home to a thriving mining industry, and a number of new towns and cities had sprung up in the area.

The map shows the location of the major mining towns and cities, including Silverton, Ouray, and Lake City, along with details in the major mining districts, including the San Juan Mountains and the Animas River Valley, including the location of Telluride, Ophir, San Miguel, Placerville and a number of other newly created towns.

Detailed Condition: