

Barry Lawrence Ruderman Antique Maps Inc.

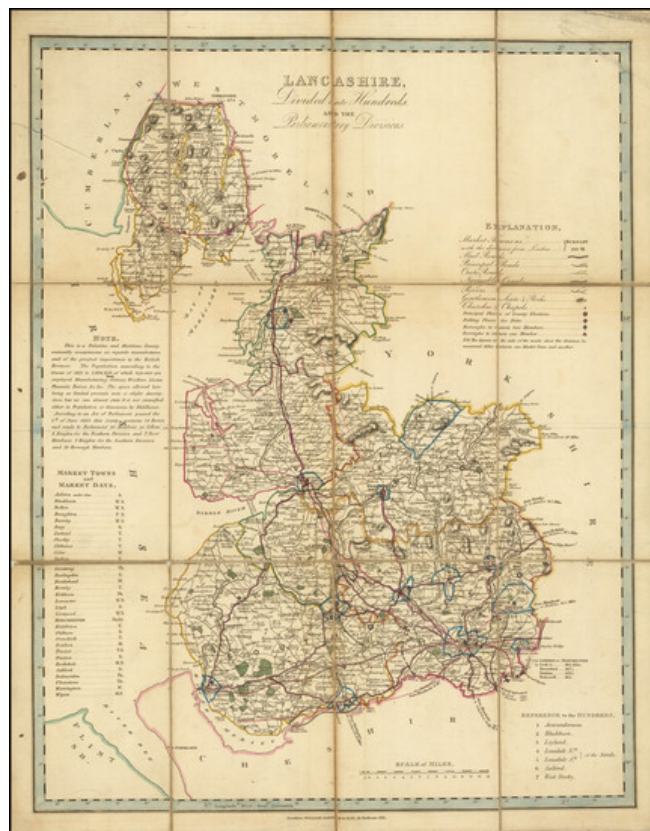

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

Lancashire, Divided into Hundreds and the Parliamentary Divisions

Stock#: 91996
Map Maker: Darton
Date: 1835 circa Place: London
Color: Outline Color
Condition: VG
Size: 14 x 17.5 inches
Price: $ 245.00

Description:

Original, antique map of the county palatine of Lancashire, in northwestern England.

This map shows the narrow county hugging the coast, extending from Cumberland in the northeast to Cheshire in the south. Cities, roads, towns, hills, and more are all shown. The county seat at Lancashire is circled in blue. Text to the left of the map describes the industrial importance of the county.

The map was published by William Darton and Son, which existed between 1830 and 1837. The map appeared in an undated atlas (generally dated to c. 1835), and some of the maps were also published separately, although all prove to be quite rare.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand color, in outline. Folding map, mounted on original linen. Short tear in upper left corner. Lacking slipcase. Some separation of linen at folds. Folds strengthened on verso with clear tape.