Description:

Mouth of the Chesapeake to Cape Canaveral in the 17th Century

One of the earliest Dutch sea charts to focus on the Southeastern Coastline of North America.

Fine dark impression of Van Keulen's map of the coastline from Cape Charles and the mouth of the Rappahannock River to Cape Canaveral, with a large inset of the region around Charleston Harbor, extending to C. de S. Romano.

Nice early delineation of the Albemarle Sound. One of the most decorative early maps of the coastal regions from southern Virginia to Northern Florida, which would serve as a prototype for maps for the next 50 years.

An essential map for regional collectors.

Detailed Condition:

Very minor foxing.
