Description:

Uncommon engraved folding map of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut from October of 1775.

The map depicts counties, townships, towns, and meeting-houses. It shows roads, forts, and landmarks from Boston leading to New York and elsewhere.

Charleston "in ruins" is noted, as is Bunkers Hill.

Following the map is a concise text which relates to the map:

A short description of the present Seat of War in North-America, illustrated with a new and accurate Map of the Province of Massachusett's-Bay, Connecticut, Rhode-Island, and Providence, exhibiting at one View the vast Tract of Country now in Arms against Great Britain.

The volume also contains the following map and plates, all engravings:

- Map of the Present Seat of War in North America (facing p. 169)
- Frontispiece of Pindar and the Three Graces
- Portrait of Sir Thomas Smith
- Figure of the Goddess Minerva
- Portrait of George Morley, Bishop of Winchester
- Psyche Imploring the Pity of Venus
- The Silk Tail or the Bohemian Jay
