Description:

This is a striking example of John Ogilby's map of Colombia, Panama, and Costa Rica, which is featured in Ogilby's America: Being the Latest, and Most Accurate Description of the New World.

The map extends from Costa Rica and Guatemala in the north to Provincia de las Esmeraldas, Val de Atris, and Val de Neyva in the south, showcasing the full course of the Rio Grande de la Magdalena and Rio Grande de Marta. The map also includes the Gouvernaci of Popayan and Nuevo Reino de Granada, along with the Governacion de Santa Marta, Cartagena, Tierra Firme, Veragua, and the Audiencias of Costa Rica and Guatemala. The map is rich with details, both real and imagined.

Two large cartouches, a compass rose, and a sailing ship are also featured on the map, adding decorative and navigational elements to the presentation.
