Description:

The largest map of Washington to appear in a general Commercial Atlas in the 19th Century.

Nice showing streets, roads, parks, buildings, rail lines, bridges, race track, US Arsenal, and other interesting details. The map delimits Washington into four quadrants and shows important buildings in black. Neighboring Virginia is shown in pink.

This is a fine example of this highly detailed map, from Rand McNally's Indexed Atlas of the World, perhaps the best large format late 19th-century atlas published in America.
