

Barry Lawrence Ruderman Antique Maps Inc.

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

The Daily Telegraph Picture Map of London

Stock#: 97515
Map Maker: Geographia
Date: 1950 circa Place: London
Color: Color
Condition: VG+
Size: 29 x 19.5 inches (sheet size)
Price: SOLD

Description:

Colorful pictorial map of London, published by the Daily Telegraph.

This mid-century pictorial map of London is a vibrant and whimsical representation of the city. It depicts the sprawling urban landscape of London with a plethora of colorful illustrations that bring to life the city's iconic landmarks, parks, streets, and the River Thames, which snakes through the map's center.

The map is teeming with depictions of daily life and historical references, from the bustling traffic of double-decker buses and black cabs to the ceremonial figures of the royal guards. It showcases the diversity of London's attractions and activities, including people enjoying green spaces, cultural sites, and the city's famous markets. Each illustration is accompanied by labels, likely identifying the names of the structures or the activities being portrayed.

The design captures the essence of mid-20th-century London, a period when the city was a mix of post-war recovery and traditional British culture. The map's playful nature of the images are quite entertaining.

Detailed Condition: