Description:

Pictorial Map of Mid-Century Sevilla

This 1950 promotional map offers a detailed view of Sevilla, Spain, highlighting its urban structure and landmarks. The map, bordered with advertisements for Jerez-Xeres Sherry, underscores the region's connection to the sherry industry.

The map includes a key illustrating the monuments and sites which are shown with small vignettes.

The slipcover features the title "Sevilla Artística," accompanied by a stylized depiction of the Giralda tower, emblematic of Sevilla's architectural heritage.

The term "Platur" and the reference to "Jerez Industrial" on the slipcover imply the map's role in highlighting Sevilla's touristic and industrial facets.
