Description:

Decorative tourist map of Sydney from the 1950s, titled "Guide Map of the City of Sydney Including King's Cross."

This pictorial map is designed to highlight key attractions and landmarks within the city for visitors.

The map is color-coded and includes a legend, or "Key to Places of Interest," which lists and locates cultural and historical sites, government buildings, parks, and other tourist destinations. Streets are clearly marked, with major thoroughfares and intersections emphasized, likely to aid navigation through the city. King's Cross, known for its vibrant nightlife, is specifically mentioned, suggesting that this area is detailed on the map.

Waterways such as Sydney Cove and Elizabeth Bay are prominently featured, along with representations of ships, suggesting the significance of maritime activities in Sydney. Icons and illustrations may be used to signify landmarks such as the Botanic Gardens, The Domain, and Hyde Park, as well as to add visual appeal.
