Description:

Scarce and highly detailed regional map, showing counties, towns, roads, rivers, lakes, mountains, islands, canals, etc.

Vandermaelen's work is without peer. He set out to produce the first uniform scale atlas of the world. In fact, each of his maps can be joined as globe gores, to form an immense globe. Cartographically, the atlas is a magnificent highly detailed work, pulling together the best information for indigenous sources. This is a bit of spotting, else a nice example.
