Saudi Arabia Gas Program Location Map

and exportation of oil and natural gas. This period saw ARAMCO at the forefront of developing the nation's vast hydrocarbon resources. The map's representation of various fields such as Khafji, Zuluf, and the prolific Ghawar, alongside infrastructure like the Dammam International Airport and Riyadh Road, encapsulates a nation at a pivotal moment of infrastructural expansion and economic growth.

The map's utility extends beyond its depiction of physical locations; it serves as a historical document reflecting the geopolitical and economic conditions of the 1970s Middle East. It details the extensive network of gas-oil separation plants (GOSPs), inhabited areas, and service stations, demonstrating the scale of Saudi Arabia's ambition and its pivotal role in the global energy market.
