Description:

Nice early example of the first edition of Mathew Carey's map of Massachusetts, published in Carey's American Atlas and General Atlas, beginning in 1795. Carey's American Atlas was the first atlas published in the United States, compiling a number of excellent maps from indigenous sources in the first compilation of American maps. This map was engraved by J.T. Scott. The map shows hills, streams, county boundaries, main roads, towns and islands. Norfolk County does not appear. This rare early state can be distinguished from later states by the lack of a page number in the upper right corner. Nice margins, which is unusual for this map, which was apparently bound into an oversized example of the atlas. Interesting later color. A bit of weakness at the folds with one very small point intersection loss, but overall a nice example. An essential map for Massachusetts Collectors. Wheat & Brun 213.
